

MINDSET

"If it's meant for me, it will be." -Nichole Harrop

You've got to have your head in the right space, otherwise looking for new opportunities is pointless.

You deserve great things, do you believe that? If not, what's holding you back? If so, write below "I deserve great things!" then say it out loud and repeat it a few times to remind your brain that it's okay to get out of your comfort zone when it means a reward is coming.

What is your dream job? How can you make efforts to start working towards this dream job? (Understand if you need another job in the meantime, but let's dream a little and plan out what you would need to do to get there.)
