

The Whole Bible Course

COURSE OVERVIEW

During this course you will study the ten principal divisions of the Scriptures in their entirety, surveying the 66 books of the Old and New Testaments of the Bible. Your course of study will follow two separate paths simultaneously, personal and academic.

PERSONAL

The personal track will consist of reading the whole Bible (KJV) in its entirety while taking the course. You will read the Bible from start to finish as though it is a novel, not worrying to memorize details, but simply taking in the book as a whole and enjoying the beauty and richness of the Word. Your reading does not have to correspond with where you are in the academic course, you will likely read ahead. Don't let note taking slow you down, but you may wish to journal or write your personal impressions or how the Lord is speaking to you, if you are inclined. At the end of each semester, you will write a reflection about your personal reading of the Scriptures. Don't underestimate the importance of this track, it is transformative.

ACADEMIC

You will dive deeper into a more detailed study of the Word on the Academic track. It will consist of a combination of quiz questions and essay assignments, accompanied by an outline of each book. All quizzes and essay questions are open-book and open-note.

COURSE MATERIALS

The only required course material is a King James Version Bible. This can be physical or digital (or both).
