

Sources

Lesson 1:

- J. L. Branchaw, A. R. Butz and A. R. Smith, Entering Research: A Curriculum to Support Undergraduate and Graduate Research Trainees, Second ed., New York: Macmillan Learning, 2020.
- University of Nebraska-Lincoln, Best Practices for Collaborating on Research - <https://graduate.unl.edu/connections/best-practices-collaborating-research>
- Gadlin, Howard and Kevin Jessar. (2001) "Preempting Discord: Prenuptial Agreements for Scientists." In: ORI: The Office of Research Integrity.
- Holgate, Sharon A. (2012) "How to Collaborate." In: Science Careers.
- Macrina, Francis L. (1995). "Dynamic Issues in Scientific Integrity: Collaborative Research." American Society for Microbiology.
- Reis, Richard M. (2001) "Avoiding Misconduct in Your Scientific Research." The Chronicle of Higher Education.
- Schwartz, Joan P. (2011). "Silence is not Golden: Making Collaborations Work." The Office of Research Integrity.
- Shaikh, Aijaz (2019), "A brief guide to research collaboration for the young scholar," Elsevier Connect, <https://www.elsevier.com/connect/a-brief-guide-to-research-collaboration-for-the-young-scholar>
- Wilson (2023). "7 Top Points: Research Collaboration Benefits." Collaboratory, <https://collaboratoryist/research-collaboration-benefits/>.