Introduction

In this course we will share the most detailed meditation technique found in the Early Buddhist Texts, called ānāpānasmṛti in Sanskrit or Ānāpānasati in Pāli, usually translated as "Mindfulness of Breathing."

This technique consists of 4 tetrads, containing 16 steps or stages, where the meditator learn how to observe the mind-body processes, including sensations, emotions, thought and the more subtle relationship between these phenomena and the common clinging to these that produces attachment and dissatisfaction.

Ānāpānasati is described as a mental cultivation process that fulfills the 4 Foundations of Mindfulness or Satipaṭṭhāna, the 7 Awakening Factors, Śamatha and Vipassana together, Dyhana, and eventually Knowledge and Freedom, therefore contains the whole path of practice laid down by the Buddha in the Early Buddhist Texts using also Right Concentration or Samma Samādhi.

The purpose of mental cultivation is to develop clear seeing into the relationship of mind-body processes, clinging and freedom from it and to help one understand the impermanence of our clung-to identity.

You can find the discourse ascribed to the Buddha where he teaches Ānāpānasati here.

We will cover the 16 steps in 10 half an hour sessions, where always starting from the first step, we will be diving into more subtle states of our consciousness and contemplation of the processes.

The four tetrads are:

- 1. Contemplation of form (body) (rūpa) Sessions 1 to 4
- 2. Contemplation of Sensations (vedanā) Sessions 5 to 8
- 3. Contemplation of Thought (citta) Sessions 9 12
- 4. Contemplation of processes (saṃskāra Saṅkhāra and dhamma) 13-16 You can find a detail step-by-step chart below.

We will divide the steps as following:

| Session | Content  |  |  |
|---------|--|--|--|
| 1       | Introduction                                   |  |  |
| 2       | First tetrad - Steps 1-4 guided                |  |  |
| 3       | Steps 1-4 guided                               |  |  |
| 4       | Steps 1-4 less guidance                        |  |  |
| 5       | Intro to the second tetrad – Guided steps 1-8  |  |  |
| 6       | Steps 1-8 guided                               |  |  |
| 7       | Steps 1-8 guided                               |  |  |
| 8       | Steps 1-8 guided                               |  |  |
| 9       | Intro to the third tetrad – guided steps 1 -12 |  |  |
| 10      | Steps 1-12 guided                              |  |  |
| 11      | Steps 1-12 guided                              |  |  |
| 12      | Steps 1-12 less guidance                       |  |  |
| 13      | Intro to the fourth tetrad – guided steps 1-16 |  |  |
| 14      | Steps 1-16 guided                              |  |  |
| 15      | Steps 1-16 guided                              |  |  |
| 16      | Steps 1-16 guided                              |  |  |
| 17      | Steps 1-16 less guidance                       |  |  |
| 18      | Steps 1-16 less guidance                       |  |  |
| 19      | Steps 1-16 less guidance                       |  |  |
| 20      | Steps 1-16 less guidance                       |  |  |

| The 16 Steps of Remembrance of Breathing (Ānāpānāsati)  | One word summary                       | The Buddha's 13 JhānaFactors   | The 4 SublimeAbodes (Brahma-vihāra) | The 4 Foundations of Mindfulness (Satipaṭṭḥāna)   | Calm andInsightDevelopment                                     |
|---|--|--|---|---|--|
| Right Intention: renunciation, non-ill will, non-harming (basis of ethics). Intend to focus on the breath for x minutes.  1. Remembering, s/he breathes in; remembering s/he breathes out  2. Breathing in/out long/short, s/he discerns that s/he is breathing in/out long/short | in/outlong/short                   | seclusion: separated from sensuality and unwholesome states     initial thought/logic     sustained thought/reason | benevolence (mettā) compassion (karuṇā)     | Body (kāya) - four main postures: sitting, standing, walking, lying down  Feeling/Sensation (vedanā) - 3 types: pleasant, painful and neither | Calm body,clear mind(samatha)                                  |
| s/he trains him/herself to breath in/out:   | h-d-                                   | unougnirieason   |   |   |  |
| sensitive to the whole body     calming the body  | bodyrelax                          |  | appreciation (muditā)                       |   |  |
| sensitive to zest     sensitive to happiness     results to the (negative) sensations     sensitive to the (negative) sensations  | energisedhappytensecalming | 4. zest/rapture 5. happiness/pleasure 6. tranquillity  |   |   |  |
| 9. sensitive to thought  10. gladdening thought  11. concentrating thought  12. releasing thought (ceto-vimutti)  | thinkinggladlighthappy     | 7-8. unification 9-10. equanimity  | equanimity (upekkhā)                        | Thought (citta)   |  |
| contemplating inconstancy     contemplating fading away     contemplating cessation   | changingweakerstopped          | 11. remembrance (sati) 12. clear comprehension (sampajañña)  |   | Emotions (saṅkhārā)- Processes(Dhammā)  | Insight(vipassanā)into body-mindrelationship/processes |
| 16. contemplating relinquishment  | free                                   | 13. complete purity (parisuddhi)   |   |   |  |

Table comparing 16 steps of anapanasati to other teachings ascibed to the Buddha in the Early texts.

https://uq.academia.edu/BrotherJoeSmith

Sources:

- The Discourse of Mindfulness of Breathing The Ānāpānasati Sutta https://suttacentral.net/mn118/en/sujato (doesn't seem to open on Firefox, apparently Chrome works best)
- The Discourse of the Four Foundations of Mindfulness The Satipatthāna Sutta https://suttacentral.net/mn10/

Discourses of the Buddha from the Early Buddhist Texts

- Sutta Central https://suttacentral.net/
- Access to Insight https://www.accesstoinsight.org/ (opened in Firefox, with a page error).

*table prepared by Brother Joe Smith aka Dhammadasa Bhikkhu.