

Become the Teacher

Today, you get to reflect on what you've been doing so far, today you teach someone else something new.

You can teach them face to face, by Skype, online or telephone. You are teaching someone something you've learned, sharing an insight you've gained, and basically paying it forward.

So your task is to approach someone who you think might benefit from hearing some of your new learning. Create the time and space to have a chat. Open up your conversation with 'I'd really like to share some cool stuff I have been learning about, would you care to hear about it?'

You get to create an interesting conversation, test out a new skills, test out your ability to explain it and reinforce it in your own brain, and find out something about the other person that you may have never known.

As usual, tell us on FB what you've done - I am all ears!!!

I LOVE sharing new stuff with people- they will love it too, go forth with an open heart and a desire to share good things!

Ciao my friends.... until tomorrow.