Achieving Results in a Gender Biased Workplace

Despite positive steps towards equality, women are still neither as well-represented nor as well rewarded as men in positions of leadership. As a woman it is essential that you understand the basics of what constitutes gender biases and how you can deal with it.

If you aren't sure where to start, what to consider or which elements to master and feel overwhelmed by it all... then this course will give you what you need to steer your progress and stand-out (for all the right reasons).

I have worked with a multitude of global companies of various sizes, capabilities and specialisms during my career of 30 plus years. I am recognised for my ability to get results and help others succeed. It is our mission to help as many people as we can to succeed on their journey to becoming a person of excellence. Our multifaceted course – Achieving Professional Excellence - is your complete solution for raising the norm and staying ahead of the curve. It is available on this platform or at courses.achievementandexcellence.com

The course is committed to the United Nations Global Goals #4 Quality Education and #5 Gender Equality and provides a course completion certificate as proof of your acquired knowledge and understanding. You can use this as evidence when documenting your learning history for employers and other relevant institutions. It is available on this platform or at courses.achievementandexcellence.com
