How to Use these Discussion Questions:

Morning Time Teens™ plans were written to help homeschoolers connect with their teens at the start of each day, before the students head off to do their independent work.

A wonderful activity to do during a morning time is to read aloud a book.

With this set of discussion questions, you can choose any book you'd like. Either give the student the printed out page(s) with the discussion question(s) you'd like them to be considering during the reading, or save the questions for just yourself and just ask a few during your discussion time.

How many questions to ask? It depends on how many students you have and how much time you want the discussion to take! One might be enough, or maybe up to 10.

What else to do during your discussion time to make it special?

- Add food
- Go to a park or someplace else outside
- Go to a coffee shop or restaurant
- Dress up as the characters from the book
- Watch the movie of the story after the discussion if there is one

Do these questions have a specific answer? Usually not. They are simply used to facilitate a discussion. In fact, they can even be used if the “questioner” (Mom or teacher) hasn't read the book.
