Posting & Commenting Cheat Sheet

Posting Guidelines:

- It's perfectly fine to post a page without asking for a critique.
- If you want a critique, type CGA (Critique Gladly Accepted) under your gallery image in the info section.
- Don't expect a comment from an instructor on every image you post.
- Suggestions from fellow students are often as helpful as an instructor's comment.
- You're not obligated to take anyone else's advice, including advice from an instructor.
- If you receive a suggestion that sounds good to you, feel free to make adjustments to your page and upload it again. Mention what changes you made in the info below the image. A link to the prior page would be nice as well.
- When you post a page, give back by commenting on several other pages.

Critique Guidelines:

- You're not obligated to give a critique. Purely positive comments are just as desirable, if not more so.
- When critiquing always mention the positive first.
- Use soft language when giving advice.
- Don't overdo it. Give one or two suggestions at most.
- Avoid terse or blunt critiques.
- If a page already has one or two suggestions, don't add any more, but feel free to agree with someone else's comment or critique.
- Notice when someone doesn't have a comment and leave them some love
