Create an entirely different Shaped Frame Cluster scrapbook page just by changing the base shape.

NOTE: Please complete the lessons in the order they are provided.

Tips for this challenge:

- Start with a new document.
- For the base shape, try using a circle, square, or tree.
- It doesn't have to be a shape layer. Anything that forms a recognizable large shape will do.
- If your document's file size gets to be too large, apply my Mask/Apply Clipped Layer action to the clipped layer. NOTE: This action does not work on photos or papers that are clipped to a group.

REMINDER! TIPS for Shaped Frames Clusters

- The Frames action will not work if you don't have the Patterns installed.
- Unless you're going for an eclectic look, I recommend staying with the same frame pattern throughout your page.
- When applying frames, start at the top of the base shape and work down.
- Randomly overlap the frame groups (both vertically and horizontally), some with a lot of overlap and some with very little overlap.
- Tilt just a few of the frames. Too much tilt adds chaos.
- Leave spaces where the base shape shows through.
- Do not keep the edges of the arranged frames smooth. They are meant to be jagged.
