TEAM MEETING INVITE EMAIL

Subject: Exciting New Challenge for Our Team – You’ll Want to Be There!

Hey Team,

We’ve got something big coming your way, and we’re inviting YOU to be part of it!

Next week, we’ll be rolling out a challenge that’s going to bring our team together in a powerful way as we head into the Christmas season. I can’t give away all the details just yet, but I can promise this: it will push us as leaders to step out in faith, build excitement, and invite people into something that can change lives.

This challenge is all about leading the way and making a real impact. Trust me, you’re going to want to be there!

 When: [Date and Time of Meeting]

 Where: [Meeting Location]

Come ready to be inspired, encouraged, and maybe even a little competitive! 😊

Subject: Here’s What We Launched Today: Lead the Way Invite Challenge!

Hey Team,

Thank you to everyone who joined us today as we kicked off the Lead the Way Invite Challenge! If you missed it, here’s a quick recap:

- What is it?

This is a staff-wide challenge, and we commit to personally inviting people to our Christmas services. We believe God will use your invites to bring people into our church community this season!

- How does it work?

Each team has assigned a Team Invite Coordinator who will check in with you regularly to track how many invites you’ve made (cards handed out, direct asks, texts, etc.).

The coordinator will update our Wall Calendar in the office, showing the invites per capita for each team. This lets us see which teams are leading the way in inviting others.

- Why are we doing this?

As we discussed, inviting is a part of our discipleship. It's not just about getting people to show up—it's about leading the way and living out our calling as Christ's ambassadors. (Check out 2 Corinthians 5:20 for a reminder!)

Let's hit the ground running with boldness and faith. Imagine what God can do through a simple invite!
