

Question:

Corrected Answer:

These pie charts depict the most important energy sources between 1980 and 1990 in United States. It is clear from the graph that more than 80 percent of the energy in the USA produced from oil, natural gas and coal.

According to what is shown, oil accounted for the highest contribution in energy sectors in both 1980 and 1990, despite the fact that oil consumption reduced by 9% by 1990. On the other hand, coal had grown from 22% to 27% between 1980 to 1990, while natural gas presented a tiny growth in the same period.

As for the other sources, the nuclear and hydroelectric power presented a contrary behavior. The nuclear energy contribution grew by the double between 1980 and 1990, while the other sustained at about the same level during the same period.

Commented [ielts1]: was (1) Make sure you write auxiliary verb form here along with the main verb. Thanks

2) Write in accordance with passive voice here. Thanks
 e.g. I consider career as very important (active)
 My career is considered very important by me. (Passive) e.g. I have done this (active).
 This has been done by me (passive)

Commented [ielts3]: and (See, with 'between' at the beginning you need to use 'and' and not 'to.' Do remember this. Thanks That is, we write 'between' + 'and'
 e.g. There are differences between my parents and my brother) e.g. You will have to choose between client A and client B.)

Commented [ielts4]: doubled (The expression is incorrect; so, rephrasing has been done here.)

Commented [ielts5]: (The word usage is not correct in this context, so omit it. Revise edit. Thanks)

To sum up, we could say that the contribution of nuclear and hydroelectric energy is as an aggregate grew by 5%, while the it reduced from 90% to 85% for the other three sources.
