

AD Organizational Units

- An organizational unit (OU) is a container in AD, where you can place users, groups, computers, and other OUs.
- Typically OUs mirror an organization's business structure.
- OUs are used to assign group policy settings and account permissions.
- With OUs, you can also delegate administrator tasks to specific user(s) and/or group(s) within making them Domain Administrators.

