Color Blend Mode Method: Homework 3 – Transcript

There's one more homework assignment before we can move on to the next section of the class. This assignment is all about you using your own stash of digital supplies to create a project that uses recoloring to make things match.

This homework assignment is all about cutting you loose and letting you explore the options you have from within your own digital supplies. Using the color blend mode recoloring method, I want you to create a card or scrapbook page using any kit you want. However, for this project, I want you to pick one paper, either from the same kit or a different kit that you'll have to recolor, and I want you to pick at least one element from either the same or a different kit to recolor as well. If you want to make things easier on yourself, start with a paper and element that are very close to the shade or tint of the new color you'll need as this will prevent you from needing to use a levels adjustment layer.

I hope you have fun seeing the possibilities of mixing and then matching the things from your stash to create a cohesive project. Next up, we'll be starting the alternative coloring methods in section two. I'm Jenifer Juris with make it match.
