Making a Presentation

You are making presentations all the time.

You want to get people to look at your product and you want to sell it.

You are all the time “selling” an idea!

You are presenting your point of view to make someone else do something s/he was not planning on doing.

Does your toddler love broccoli?

Does your boss really want to give you that raise?

Making a Presentation

We do change people's minds.

When people are looking at our presentation video you do want to change their mind!

When they look at our sales page, you do want them to buy.

When they purchased your course, you do want them to do it and learn.

SO:

The steps in the next lectures will teach you how to improve your presentations and help you change people's minds.
