00:29:45 Lauren (she /they)| Echo Park: Everyone living in Los Angeles, I'm working on two ordinance to get the City Council to pass, both of which are part of the new "Whites Only" acceleration of taking over working class neighborhoods: 1) not accepting cash for payments (coffee, ice cream, sandwiches, donuts [which really made me mad}). This one has already been moved Council file is CF 23-0846. If you're here to work on behalf of working people being displaced, I urge you to submit a public comment (it's the "new" button at the top) and contact your Councilmember, too. Upwards of 30% of Angelenos are unbanked or underbanked and thus excluded from these newcomer businesses which often display longstanding stores by paying much higher rents. <https://cityclerk.lacity.org/lacityclerkconnect/index.cfm?fa=ccfi.viewrecord&cfnumber=23-0846>

00:32:57 Lauren (she /they)| Echo Park: The 2nd ordinance I'm working on is to require all planning documents and zoning variance notifications to be distributed in English and at least the 2nd most spoken language in the neighborhood (Planning has the census data to make this an easy lift) with costs passed along to the requestor. Still looking for a sponsor in the Council for this one -- but the language injustice is real.

00:37:03 Abundant Housing LA: So why doesn't zoning line up with the general plan?

00:47:13 Tracey Alexander: Why were so many cities non-compliant?

00:59:56 Lauren (she /they)| Echo Park: Question: What are the state's requirements, if any, to disseminate information re: the housing element broadly and accessible (i.e. in languages other than English, including braille)?

01:01:42 Abundant Housing LA: We have a session about AFFH in the second module of this course! 😊
