

Focal Point

For the image on the right, the journaling is the same height as the photo that it's on top of. This creates a nice sense of balance.

Repetition

Repeat a photo to make a stack. Or, repeat the flow of things on the page like the title, journaling, and elements.

Flow

Placing connectors over the split in a thirds design will naturally cause flow to happen on your scrapbook page.

Balance

One way to maintain balance in your finished design is to match the height of the journaling with the height of a photo.

Rule of Odds

Add strips of paper at the split or rectangles of paper in the background in odd numbers to add interest to the page.

White Space

It helps to create breathing room, also known as white space. Don't fill up the page just because you can.

Proximity

Buddy elements, journaling, and a title up with the focal point so to avoid trapped space. Aligning things to the edge of the page is good also.

FINISHING THE THIRDS