

FIND YOUR PASSION

WORKSHEET

DISCOVER YOUR SUPERPOWER!

What's your superpower?

Things I enjoyed doing when I was younger

What I still enjoy

What excites me

Top 10

Top 5

Top 3

Dream Skills

Worksheet

Develop Super Hero Powers

These writing prompts, or short questions, are to encourage you and provoke thought about finding your passions.

First: “What Super Hero power do you wish you had?”

Second: Why would you be better at what you do if you had it?

Develop Your Passion

Worksheet

The Single Most Important Thing
You Can Do

What to know how to develop your passion once you've found it? Whether it's visual design or baking cupcakes, get moving! Get active! Get your body and brain out of your office and your daily grind. Here are some examples of how you can get moving before your conference experience:

- Join a twitter chat
- Join a Facebook group
- Volunteer at the library teaching people about your passion
- Share your passions with your local networking group who else shares those passions?
- Start your own Facebook group with people of like interests
- Start a LinkedIn group for like minded professionals
- Host a book club
- Create a podcast
- Create a YouTube Channel
- Join the conference online community group
- Reach out on Quora and find out who else is attending your conference & has same interests
- Have a nice following on Social Media? Ask them for a list of Q&A's about your passion and get answers during the conference
- Start a blog about your passion
- Start a Storify for all your tweets share!
- Prepare a note book in Evernote and take conference notes, send the notes to the boss and your audience
- Research the conference venue, find things that are interesting that would add to your conference experience
- Start talking on Periscope
- Sign up for blab.im and find others who share your passion and host live discussions.