

REASONS TO COME TO GERMANY

The Good and The Bad

NO TUITION FEE

You can rarely find a country where the living standards are high and the living costs are extremely low. Well, Germany is one of those unusual countries and it goes out of its way to be an absolute paradise for students by having no tuition fee whatsoever for international students in most of the German universities.

BRINGING PARENTS

According to the German Aufenthaltsgesetz Clause 36, it's only allowed to bring your core family to Germany in the long term i.e. your wife/husband and kids, but not your old parents or any other relatives, although they can always visit you on a tourist visa for a duration of 3 months in the span of 6 months every year.

NETWORKING

There are two kinds of capital that can make your life extraordinary: financial and social. Meeting and getting to know the right kind of people doesn't only help you grow as a person, but makes you aware about the hidden opportunities which you otherwise might not have come across on your own.

IT'S EASY

Now this is the gossip that your relatives or acquaintances might do more than you because that's a general thing to assume whenever somebody makes the decision to go abroad for their studies. Even though Germany has insane amounts of opportunities, but none of them would help you, if you don't work hard to capture them.

WHEN YOUR VALUES ARE CLEAR TO YOU
MAKING DECISION BECOMES EASIER.

Visit the complete course at:
<https://bharatingermany.com/online-courses>